Hi Prof Aspnes,

It was great talking with you last week about my skepticism of Big Tech and its role in the deepening social inequality of our beleaguered country. This is not completely related to that discussion, but I'm starting an art project that relies very heavily on a lot of skills and techniques that many of your advisees, and more broadly, students in the Computer Science department who are looking for interesting things to do with their free time would potentially find their interests piqued by.

Would you be willing to forward this to the cs-majors-jobs list, and maybe give it a mention to students whose schedules you're required to sign in the coming days, should you believe they might be interested in such a project?

Cheers,

Marcus
